THE WALKER HOUSE, CONCORD, N. H.

This was built in 1734 by Rev. Timothy Walker, (the first, and for fifty years, the only Minister of Concord,) who lived in it until his death in 1782. From him it passed to his son Judge Timothy Walker who occupied it until 1822 when he died; and it descended to his son Capt. Jos. Walker, who, dying in 1833 left it to his son Jos. B. Walker, its present occupant. It has been somewhat modified from time to time; but this view presents it as originally constructed.

DIARIES OF THE REV. TIMOTHY WALKER,

THE FIRST AND ONLY MINISTER OF CONCORD, NEW HAMPSHIRE, FROM HIS ORDINATION, NOVEMBER 18, 1730, TO HIS DEATH, SEPTEMBER 1, 1782.

PREFATORY NOTE.

The Rev. Timothy Walker, author of the following diaries, was the first minister of Pennycook, now Concord, N. H., and from the organization of its church to his death, a period of fifty-two years, its only one.

He was born in Woburn, Mass., on the 27th day of July, 1705, was graduated at Harvard College in 1725, and settled at Pennycook on the 18th day of November, 1730. This was his first and only settlement. As did his neighbors, he went there to stay, and at once identifying himself with all their interests, he devoted to these the energies of his entire life. He possessed good mental abilities, a good education, strong common sense, and marked wisdom. He was not only their spiritual advisor, but their legal and temporal counsellor as well.

His modest salary,* insufficient for his support, was supplemented by the income of the parsonage lands and the farm which was given by the proprietors of the township to their first settled minister. He thus became a farmer as well as minister, and, through this relation, was brought into more intimate sympathy with his people than he might otherwise have been.

His pacific feelings and good sense contributed to the maintenance of friendly relations with the neighboring Indians, liable at any time to be provoked to acts of violence by imaginary grievances or the wiley counsels of the French.

But, pacific as was his disposition, he held firmly to the sacred right of self-defence. When, therefore, some twenty years after his settlement at Pennycook, a company having little existence but upon paper laid claim to the fair town which his people had wrested from the wilderness, he personally championed their cause, and, in the prosecution of appeals from the decisions of the New Hampshire courts, made no less than three voyages to England in their behalf, where he finally obtained, from the King in Council, the redress denied them at home. This struggle lasted about thirteen years.

All through the Revolutionary war he was an ardent patriot. He lived to rejoice at the surrender of Lord Cornwallis, to see the establishment of independence, and the substantial close of the war. He died September 1, 1782.

For a large portion of his life Mr. Walker kept brief diaries of current events. It is to be regretted that most of these have perished. Three, however, have been preserved entire, and fragments of six others. They afford vivid pictures of New Hampshire life on the Indian frontier while the question of English or French supremacy on this continent was being decided and while the inestimable privileges of American independence were being achieved.

Thur. 12. Sledged logs for my fence.

1. Col. Benjamin Rolfe, who graduated at Harvard College in 1727, was one of the early proprietors and most influential citizens of Concord. In 1764, he built the house now occupied by the Rolfe & Rumford Asylum, and soon after married Sarah, the oldest daughter of Mr. Walker. Col. Rolfe died in 1771, and his widow subsequently became the wife of Benjamin Thompson, now known as Count Rumford.

2. The furnishing of masts to the ship builders of the coast towns was, for many years, an important business in Concord. Their transportation to the river bank, whence they were floated to their destination, required very large teams, some of which numbered twenty yoke of oxen. Many were collected and rolled into the Contoocook at a place called the "mast yard." Hence came the name of that locality.

3. Fences were often made of whole logs piled one above another upon short blocks between them, and sometimes of split rails supported by morticed posts. Chestnut was a favorite timber for the latter, on account of its easy rift and durability.

Frid. 13. A fine, moderate day. Maj<sup>r</sup> How of New Ipswich came to advise about settling upon y<sup>e</sup> L<sup>ds.</sup> reserved Land. At night Capt Hudson & Mr. N. Rolfe arrived here.

Sat. 14. Appearance of a thaw. Dined at Col<sup>o</sup> Rolfe's in company with Capt. Hudson & Mr. Rolfe.
